SOVIET CITIZENS TRANSFERRED TO RUMANIA

Large numbers of Soviet citizens and their families continue to arrive in Rumania where positions are made available to them immediately. It is estimated that the number of Soviet citizens transferred since the end of World War II to Rumania approaches 160,000. These persons have been prospering at the expense of the Rumanian economy.

Each week fresh groups of Italian citizens arrive in Italy from Rumania, having been expelled by the Communist government. It is learned from Bucharest that the Rumanian government is compelling French, British, and other nationals to leave the country, since few of them have cared to accept the "Rumanian citizenship" offered by the authorities.
